DAGGETT'S POEM.

The memorial exercises at Arlington possessed a feature of Pacific Coast interest in a recitation by Congressman Daggett, of Nevada, of an original poem, written by him for the occasion. It was well delivered, and received with enthusiasm. It opens with a story of a Saxon King, whose subjects, headed by his brother, rebelled, but were conquered and then pardoned. The spirit of treason, however, did not sleep, and they endeavored again to overthrow the Government, but their purpose failed. The remaining portion was devoted to an eloquent description of Arlington and a eulogy of the brave heroes resting under the sod, saying of them:

The nation wears the boys their valor won,
But every year return a them with tears
And lays them at the feet of sacrifice.

MORE LIES.

The Evening Chronicle again perpetrates a series of lies in its issue of last evening. The writer but rehearsed the tissue of falsehoods so frequently asserted by himself and pals, and which have been so often disproved. Despite the cunning schemes, and devilish concoctions emanating from the crew, they have had, all in its proper place, the stuff rammed down their throats, still they were sore. Whenever it becomes necessary the medicine will be readministered, and the next dose of crow will be harder than ever to digest.

The San Francisco Post declares that in keeping with the revival in the mining interests there is an important reaction in the price of silver which has so long been subjected to a most unwarranted depression. Yesterday bars were quoted in the London market at 51 9-16 pence per ounce. There are prospects of a further advancement, all of which will encourage mining men and enable them to increase the silver supply. This means larger profits to stockholders of the now productive mines, and a resumption of work in properties which have been closed or were unprofitable because of the heavy discount on their yield.

Portland promises growth for 1879 equal to that for 1878. Then a thousand buildings were erected, many being substantial brick blocks for stores, and many others a very handsome class of residences. The effect of recent railroad speculations has been to put town and country on the quiver, and create great expectations.

Chief Joseph, of the Nez Percés, doesn't appear to be a success as a lecturer. If the young warrior wants to draw he should commit some heinous crime, get up a huge scandal about himself, or something of that sort, as the white Christian. Beecher could tell him how to arrange the business.

CALIFORNIA HAY.—The agricultural editor of the Sacramento Record-Union says:

There has been great damage done to large quantities of hay in this vicinity, and in fact in many sections of the State, this year. We regret not for the fact that the hay crop is unusually large this season, this damage would affect the price and the market for hay materially. As it is, there will probably be a great plenty of hay, and prices will rule low during the season. Many are now cutting the second crop of alfalfa, and its quality is much better than that of the first crop.

DECLINE IN AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS.—The New York Bulletin presents statistics showing a decline in farming operations in New York, Connecticut, New Jersey and Pennsylvania since 1875. While New York has increased in population 21 per cent., her agricultural interests have utterly failed to keep pace with the general progress of the State, and therefore, relatively, farming is retrogressing. Nor is this the worst aspect of the case. The impoverished and debt burdened condition of the farmers leaves no hope for their recuperation, but rather foreshadows a still worse condition of things in the future. What we have here shown to exist in New York is but a specimen of the state of affairs in Connecticut, New Jersey and Pennsylvania also, and the conclusion to be drawn is that in this group of States farming is verging towards a condition of things in which it will be virtually confined to dairy products and vegetable growing, to an extent necessary to supply the city populations, while the larger and more solid branches must steadily decline.

Those who remember how Major Tom Ochiltree was appointed United States Marshall for the State of Texas—persuading President Grant that he, Major Tom, was seriously injured in the defense of the President's good name against a crowd of Texas ruffians—will not be prejudiced against the truth of this other story against him as told by a New Mexico newspaper: "On one occasion he was in England, a guest of a nobleman who had come in contact with him during a visit to this country, and who had fallen an easy victim to Tom's unsurpassed impudence and powers of fascination. The Englishman had taken Tom to London and was exhibiting him to his friends as a genuine American lion. Tom was fully supplied with funds by his noble friend, and was cutting a grand figure. One day Tom and his friend met the Prince of Wales at a club. The nobleman asked permission of the Prince to introduce his American friend. Leave having been obtained, Tom was formally introduced to the heir apparent. He grasped the royal hand and shook it heartily, and then burst out: "Wales, old fellow, I'm devilish glad to know you; let's take a drink!" The horror of the nobleman was changed to amazement when the Prince gave Tom's hand a hearty shake and replied: "Don't care if I do." Check carried the day."

The new liquor law in Massachusetts compels bar room keepers to get the written consent of their land lords, and that provision is causing dealers a great deal of trouble—property owners generally disliking to put themselves in a dangerous position with reference to the Civil Disobedience Act.

According to the Fort Collins Courier, the most epigrammatic description of the population of Leadville was that given the other day by a jovial Irishman who had just returned from that camp. Said he: "Be jibbers, two thirds of them are dead bates, and t'other half haven't money enough to pay their board!"

THE MOORE CENTENNIAL.

The following is a letter from Secretary Sherman in reply to an invitation to attend the Moore centennial celebration, in New York city:

THEATRE DEPARTMENT, May 21, 1879.
EUGENE B. MOORE, Secretary Moore Centennial Committee, No. 134 East Fifty seventh street, New York:—

DEAR SIR—I acknowledge with thanks the receipt of your kind invitation to be present at the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Thomas Moore, and regret my inability to be with you on so interesting an occasion. My recollections of the brilliant genius of this poet date from my early boyhood, and are still so deep and pleasing that I could join heartily in the honors paid his memory.

I know him then as Tom Moore. It was the name given him by the familiar affection of two continents—a name whose enchantment the youngsters of to-day can hardly apprehend. How intimately then he was mingled in our thoughts and imaginings! The poetry of Moore was read and his songs were sung in every household. Time has left him the representative Irish poet. His country, prolific of genius of every kind, has doubtless produced greater men, but none who have so aptly expressed the feeling and aspirations of her home life. His works are the altar of the shamrock.

Death has made for him, as it often does for men of genius, a second life as splendid than the renova of his lifetime. His various literary productions, the bright satire, the poetry on Oriental themes, exquisite prose, romance like the "Epicurean," witty epistle, neat epigram, biography like that of Byron, the copious annals of his country—they all hold and will continue to hold their honored place in literature. These songs can never be heard without enthusiasm. They have an ever changing charm, and whether mournful or gay, they breathe the sweet wildness of the Irish harp and all the hope and grief of the Irish national life. The legend and landscape, the picturesque history, the poetical national traits, the romance of the past, the courage, the chivalrous homage to beauty, the frolic, levity, conviviality, joy, anguish, love of country, fiery sorrow under subjugation, the passion for national independence, without which there is no greatness in a poetry or a people—all that is most Irish is contained in these melodies.

We are French when we read Victor Hugo; Walter Scott makes Scotchmen of us all and we are made Irishmen by the magic of Moore's melodies. These songs have naturalized us. They have made the poetic vision of Ireland to fill every heart with sympathy and respect. Emmet has his wish in another, perhaps a better, sense than he meant—his country takes her place, high and abiding, among the nations of the earth in the genius of her sons, among them Thomas Moore will always hold a supreme place. I am very truly yours,
JOHN SHERMAN.

LIVELY STOCK SPECULATIONS.

The current of recent events has given great impetus to business in Wall street, and many successful turns are reported where immense profits are made in short periods. The most successful way that we have heard of yet in operating in stocks is by the Combination Method of Messrs Lawrence & Co., Bankers, New York. By this system thousands of orders in various sums are pooled into one vast capital and operated under the most experienced and skillful management, thus securing to each shareholder superior advantages and profits, not possible in any other way. Profits are paid at end of 30 days. A gentleman in Boston, made $747 30 cents on an investment of $100. Many others are doing as well or better. Capital in any amount from $10 to $100,000 can be used with equal proportionate success by this Combination or Cooperative Method. $15 would make $75, or 5 per cent. on the stock; $100 would return $200, or 9 per cent. during the month, and so on, according to the market. The new circular contains "two unerring rules for success" and full information, so that any one can operate with profit. Stocks and bonds wanted. Deposits received. Government bonds supplied. Apply to Lawrence & Co., Bankers, 57 Exchange Place, N. Y. City.

CONDITION OF THE WHEAT PLANT.

The weather has continued most favorable since our last issue for the growing wheat, notwithstanding we have had another slight rain in many sections. The cool air and windy weather have been unfavorable to the spread of rust, and grain is approaching that stage of forwardness when this fungus is not likely to do much damage. However, we cannot close our eyes to the fact that the wheat over very large sections of the State is in a very precarious condition. The leaves are already quite badly affected, and in some cases the fungus has commenced to cover the stems, and should a few days of damp atmosphere and hot sun succeed, serious damage would be the result. Farmers and dealers are watching the weather and the growing grain with a great deal of anxiety.—[Sacramento Record-Union.]

The instalment system has its drawbacks. A gunsmith in Albany sold an eleven-year-old boy a $5 revolver for fifty cents down and ten cents a week until the $5 was paid. Unfortunately, before the boy owned the pistol half an hour he had shot a companion through the knee. The gunsmith's chances on his ten cents instalments are considered by good financial judges to be exceedingly precarious.

The long water-proof cloak and shawl that Jeff Davis wore when he was captured are preserved from moths in a cedar chest in the War Department, and no one is allowed to see them. Mrs. Davis gave them to Col. Pritchard, who sent them to the Secretary of War.

"Masked."—It was a fine figure and well dressed. The ankle displayed as she crossed the gutter was a shapely one. Her step was like the waving of a delicate dandelion in the gentle breeze of a Summer twilight. She was veiled. "Ahem," coughed the "masher". The third time brought an answer. "Ahem," came the response in a shrill contralto voice. They "ahemed" once or twice each, and her walking pace became slower while his increased. Suddenly she dropped her handkerchief. He hastened to pick it. She walked a few yards and missed her nose-rag and stopped. Right valiantly did he sashay toward her, and with a bow that would have made Chesterfield jealous, he handed her the article saying, "It's a lovely afternoon isn't it?" She grabbed the handkerchief and replied, "You're the d—dest fool white man I ever seed. I fo't sure it war Jim Johnson dat tony D street moke. Guess you's struck the wrong trail, white man, hevent' you?" He requested her to go to a climate where ice water is worth four bits a smell, and it didn't take twenty seconds to retrace his steps o'er the ground that he had previously wasted eight minutes in traversing.

Picnic to Bowers.

The Methodist Sunday School on Sunday last decided to hold another picnic on the Fourth of July, this time at Bowers' Mansion. An excursion train will be run from Reno, in the morning and return in the evening. The proper committees have it in charge, and will prepare everything suitable for the days enjoyment. It is likely that tickets for the round trip for all over sixteen will be two dollars; under that age one dollar. Invitations will be extended to all the Reno Sunday Schools and to the schools in Virginia, Gold Hill and Carson. Particulars will be announced in due time.

Fine Hotel.

J. D. Swart formerly a partner in the Delta saloon at Carson, has become interested in the Ellsworth Hotel at that place, and considering the fine locality of the house, he has every prospect of success. Being only a few steps from Treadway's Ranch, directly on the line of the V. & T. R. R., and having beautiful grounds surrounding the house it certainly affords a very pleasant place of resort.

Half Interest.

A. L. Hurd has purchased a half interest in the dray with Sam Fannon, and took possession yesterday. Mr. Hurd will run the dray, while Sam goes back into the Granger store to clerk. The dray will be ready at any and all times, and will do all work entrusted to them safely, quickly and cheaply. We commend the new firm to the attention of the public.

Racers Going East.

In charge of L. R. Martin, these horses owned by E. J. Baldwin, passed through for the East early yesterday morning: Mollie McCarty, Glenita, Experiment Clara D. The trotter Sam Purdy, owned by J. R. Keene, left for the East Saturday. All of them are noted racers with good records and are entered in races to take place in the East this Summer.

In Memoriam.

CASTLE HALL OF AMITY LODGE, K. OF P.
Reno, May 31, 1879.

At a regular convention of our Lodge held in our Castle Hall, on the evening of the above date, the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The Infinite and All-wise Ruler has taken from among us our beloved brother, C. A. Simmons, and Whereas, His demise was so precipitate as to deprive him of the comfort and consolation of the kind and soothing cares of those near and dear to him, and of brothers who were bound to him by ties most sacred, therefore be it

Resolved, That we bow in humble submission to the Divine will of Him who giveth and taketh away.

Resolved, That by the death of Bro. Simmons our Lodge has lost a member earnest and zealous in its well-being and his surviving brethren, a true companion.

Resolved, That in token of respect for his memory, the Charter of our Lodge be draped in mourning for the space of thirty days.

Resolved, That we extend our fraternal sympathies to the bereaved daughter of our lamented brother, reminding her that He who hath deprived her of a father's love doth all things well.

Resolved, That the foregoing preamble and resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this Lodge, and that a copy under the seal of our Lodge be transmitted to the surviving daughter of our late brother, and a copy to the Evening Gazette and JOURNAL.

J. M. FLANAGAN,
J. F. MEYER,
J. S. GILSON. } Committee.

Circumstances over which we had no control prevented us from obtaining a report of the proceedings of the Board of Commissioners for publication this morning.

Isaac Barnett's new price list is well worth studying, and we cannot see how there can be much profit on goods at such prices. But let the war continue.

In front of the Truckee Market could be seen yesterday a half breed buffalo, which had been brought in with a band of cattle from the North a few days ago.

The Bentz Minstrel band serenaded the Gazette force yesterday. They all rushed out on the porch. Not one of them blushed.

Charlie Becker's new card is of interest to his friends. Charlie has a nice stock, and is always up with the times.

A Jose and wife were charivariated Sunday night. He put up the fluid for all hands.

Stocks were red hot yesterday. Has the Spring rise commenced?

Hot—well, yes, Summer is here good and solid.

INCREASE OF THE HUMAN RACE.

According to the most recent calculations—those of Peterman—the population of the whole world is now 1,424,000,000. It is well known that not a few thinkers have called in question the account of the origin of mankind as given in the Biblical writings, on the ground that it was impossible that in the period in question so many could have descended from two ancestors—Adam and Eve. This objection, however, Euler has undertaken to meet, by showing that, in a process of doubling the population from one pair it might amount to any conceivable number. It has been laid down that a population can double itself in twenty five years. It is true that, if the population increased to its present pitch in 5,880 years, it may have doubled itself every 240 years. The inhabitants of the earth would thus, in 200 years, approach 3,000,000,000; and at the same rate the difference between the birth rate and the death rates would be nearly constant, although themselves varying widely.

A Wolverhampton, England, policeman thought the town crier was a nuisance and continually requested him to "be a-movin' on." The crier felt that his dignity was injured by this request, and forthwith determined to demolish the policeman. Now most town criers who Atlas-like supported the vast importance of a town like Wolverhampton on their shoulders, would straightway have descended upon that policeman and a street fight would have been the consequence. Not so with our deliberate and muscular Wolverhamptonian. He requested the guardian of the law to collect his friends and £50 while he the T. C. would collect his friends and another £50, and they would settle the difficulty in a regular prize fight, and charge admission money. The policeman agreed. After a little trouble at the start, on account of the latter desiring to retain his club, the contest began. The blue coat being bereft of his favorite weapon, was annihilated. There is a vacancy for a well developed man in the town Wolverhampton police force, and the town crier shouts as his wont, with none to molest him and make him afraid.

The best watchwork done in town is in Guggel's mechanical workshop, west side of Virginia street, Reno, Nev.

TALK IS CHEAP.—And so are fine clothing, boots, shoes, and gentlemen's and boys' fine furnishing goods, if you go to the right place to get them. This is a mighty important point, for some people who assert that they sell cheap do nothing of the kind. I do not boast when I say that I defy competition in prices in anything in my line. Besides this I have only one price. I have no preferred customers. Everybody is treated alike at my establishment. My stock is the largest and most complete ever offered in any part of this State.

Everything I have is new. No old, musty and out-of-date goods can be found on my shelves. I receive daily by rail and express the latest and best goods, which are obtained at first hand and sold at prices below those now prevailing in New York and Chicago. Let the people come and judge of my prices and examine my stock before going into those humbugging, Cheap John shops, in which they drum into the ear of the customer that they sell at cost and even below cost. Anybody with common sense must know that they lie. No store-keeper sells goods for the fun of the thing. I make a profit on everything I sell, as every honest merchant does, and don't print foolish falsehoods in the vain hope of deceiving the public. One must make a profit to live. I particularly call attention to my full stock of fancy underwear, such as is kept nowhere else in Reno. This class of goods forms one of my specialties. Remember the place. The White House, No. 19, Commercial Row.

Complexional Indications.
The complexion of persons whose digestion is out of order, who are bilious, or who lack vigor, always exhibits an unhealthy tint. It is by regulating the bodily organs and promoting digestion and assimilation, that the parchment hue indicative of ill health, is banished from the cheeks. To rectify the fault of a sallow complexion, use Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, an invigorant and alterative which removes those obstacles to renewed strength, physical comfort and personal attractiveness—an imperfect digestion and a disordered condition of the bowels. Persistence in the use of this inestimable corrective and tonic will assuredly result in renewed physical regularity and vigor, will tend to increase bodily substance, and cause the glow and clear color of health to return to the sallow, wasted cheek.

INSURANCE.—We desire to say to our insurance patrons and owners of property generally that we have secured the services of Mr. T. B. Camp, a professional insurance man who has had several years practical experience in the business and is thoroughly posted in all its details. He will give his entire time and attention to the business of insurance, thus securing care and skill in the writing of policies, so as to properly cover the risks, which is of great importance, as many sufferers by the late fire may recall, as it might have saved them hundreds of dollars in the adjustment of a loss. We shall issue policies and adjust losses at our office.
